miles per hour, the car began to skid, and shot through a heavy high hedge and about 150 feet out into a corn field. The car was backed out easily, and the time consumed by the little adventure was only eight minutes.

Had it not been for several pleasure stops, Mr. Davis said the trip could easily have been made in ten days. The weather was fine most of the way, but quite warm.

The automobile which made the trip is a demi-tonneau, (or four-passenger) of the 1911 model, which had been run more than 2,600 miles in Nebraska. The trip from Omaha was made without a single mechanical repair, and with absolutely no expense whatever except for oil and gasoline.

Only two punctures were experienced, one ten miles west of Toledo and the other in the city of Albany, N. Y. On examination at the end of the journey, not a loose nut was found.
